

NRCHA E-Cow Work

April 19, 2010

Paso Robles Event Center to Host Barbecue on Saturday at the Hackamore Classic

Thanks to the Paso Robles Event Center, the home of the NRCHA Hackamore Classic, hungry participants won't have to travel far on Saturday for some great food. The Events Center is hosting a Barbecue on Saturday, and it will begin at 6pm. Many thanks to Vivian Robertson, CEO of the Paso Robles Event Center, and everyone who has made this possible.

Watch the Top Five 2010 NRCHA Stakes Cow Works

If you didn't get to Nampa for the 2010 NRCHA Stakes - or if you did and would like to see it again - you can catch the Top Five Cow Works in the Open Finals on the video page at www.gallopingvideo.com. Thanks to Tom and Marleen of Galloping Video for providing this great watching.

Don't Forget to Fill Out Non Pro Declarations

If you are an NRCHA Non Pro and you plan to show, you must fill out an NRCHA Non Pro Declaration in addition to your 2010 membership. Show results cannot be posted until all Non Pro Declarations for Non Pros competing at that show are received.

To find the Non Pro Declaration, visit http://www.nrcha.com/pdf/news/membership/NON\_PRO\_DECLARATION.pdf

To fill out your NRCHA Membership application online, go to http://www.nrcha.com/membershipRegistrationStep1\_2010.asp

Getting it Right!

In the previous edition of E-Cow work, there was a typo which stated that Cinch added $50,000 to the Intermediate Open at the Snaffle Bit Futurity. As stated previously, Cinch is adding $25,000 to the Cinch Intermediate Open Futurity and that brings the total added money to $70,000! First place in the Intermediate Open will pay $30,000. Thanks again to Cinch for its incredible support of the National Reined Cow Horse Association.
